Over the past two years, state legislators across the country have launched an unprecedented series of initiatives aimed at lowering labor standards, weakening unions, and eroding workplace protections for both union and non-union workers. This policy agenda undercuts the ability of low- and middle-wage workers, both union and non-union, to earn a decent wage.

In its 2014 decision of Brinker v. Superior Court, the California Supreme Court explained that employees must be "relieved of all duties" during their statutorily required 30-minute meal periods. Since that time, however, courts have struggled to define the exact status that employees are entitled to enjoy during the shorter 10-minute rest breaks which are also required by statute.
